3. Purpose of the Platform, scope of the Terms and acceptance

YouniHub.com is intended to showcase the activities of independent Creators and multidisciplinary digital studios, publish free Content, present Project milestones and build communities around film, design, music, podcasts, education and other creative fields.

These Terms apply only to the functions actually made available at the Platform's current free-of-charge stage. They do not govern paid, transactional, investment or Web3 functions because those functions are not currently available.

Use of the Platform requires compliance with these Terms. Creating an Account or obtaining Creator status requires the User to confirm that they have read these Terms and the Privacy Policy in the manner provided during registration.

These Terms are made available free of charge before a contract for the provision of electronic services is concluded and, at the User's request, in a form that permits them to be downloaded, saved, reproduced and printed. A User may save the current version of the Terms on their own device at any time.

Supplementary Documents apply only to the functions to which they relate. No Supplementary Document or marketing description may introduce a fee, financial commitment or investment right unless the relevant function has first been launched under separate terms and the User's required consent has been obtained.

4. Age, legal capacity and technical requirements

At its current stage, the Platform is intended for persons who are at least 18 years old. Creating an Account, obtaining Creator status and using community functions require the User to be an adult and have capacity to enter into a contract under the law applicable to that User.

The Operator may request confirmation of age or identity to the extent justified by security, Creator verification, an infringement report or a legal obligation. The Privacy Policy describes how such data is processed.

Use of the Platform requires a device with an up-to-date operating system and browser, Internet access and, for an Account, a working email address. Any device, Internet access or data transmission costs payable to an external provider are not fees charged by the Operator.

5. Entirely free-of-charge nature of the Platform - no transactions

Visiting the Platform, creating and maintaining an Account, viewing available Content, Following Creators and publishing by approved Creators are currently free of charge. The Operator does not charge Users or Creators any subscription, commission, publishing fee, access fee or other fee for those activities.

In particular, the Platform does not currently enable users to:

- purchase or sell Content, access, licences, products, tickets, meetings or services;
- enter into paid subscriptions or memberships, give tips or donations, or make other monetary contributions;
- fund Projects, place paid orders or pre-orders, invest, make loans, or acquire an interest in profits, revenue, debt or ownership;
- make deposits, withdrawals, refunds or settlements, store funds, or provide payment card details;
- connect a Wallet, sign blockchain transactions, or issue, acquire, dispose of or store tokens, NFTs, cryptocurrencies or stablecoins;
- automatically split remuneration, fees, royalties or revenue among Creators and co-creators;
- purchase reach, paid profile promotion, paid advertising or placement in rankings offered by the Platform to Users.

Following, liking, commenting, answering a survey or any other engagement does not create a paid subscription, a contract with a Creator, a partnership, co-ownership of a Project, an investment relationship, a right to a reward, or a right to future revenue or profits.

The free-of-charge nature of the Platform does not exclude consumer rights relating to digital content or digital services where applicable law also applies when a Consumer provides personal data instead of paying a price.

6. Available and unavailable functions

Currently available free of charge	Currently unavailable
Browsing public profiles and free Content.	Purchases, sales, paid subscriptions, tips, donations or orders.

Publication of free Content by approved Creators.	Payouts, automatic revenue sharing, remuneration or financial settlement through the Platform.

7. Planned Features and the Younithub development vision

Younithub informational materials may present a development vision involving Creator tools, crowdfunding, tokenised memberships, utility NFTs, Smart Contracts, on-chain ownership, programmable commerce, automatic revenue sharing, contributor payouts or the ability for Fans to participate in a Project's success.

At the current stage, these are solely concepts, development objectives or information about possible future functions. They do not constitute an offer for sale, a crypto-asset offer, a white paper, a prospectus, a crowdfunding offer, a promise that a function will be launched, an investment recommendation, or grounds for transferring funds, connecting a Wallet or signing a transaction.

Launching any paid, token-based, investment or transactional function will require a prior legal assessment, identification of the appropriate and, where required, authorised provider, publication of separate or updated terms and information about prices and risks, and the User's express consent. Acceptance of these Terms does not cover any such future function and cannot result in a fee being charged automatically.

8. Account and available community functions

Public profiles and Content may be available without an Account. A free Account may be required to Follow, comment, answer surveys, receive notifications, save preferences or use another community function. The Operator may make only some of these functions available.

Each User may have one personal Account unless the Operator permits an additional Account for a Creator, studio, team or organisation. A team Account should identify a responsible adult. Creating additional Accounts to circumvent verification, a restriction or a moderation decision is prohibited.

The User undertakes to:

- provide information that is true, current and not misleading;
- protect login credentials, use a secure password and not make the Account available to another person;
- not disclose verification codes, login links or other authentication data;

- log out after using a public or shared device;
- notify the Operator promptly of any suspected Account compromise or other incident;
- not create Accounts to circumvent a block, restriction or moderation decision;
- not impersonate another person, Creator, studio, brand, the Operator or any third party;
- use the Platform in accordance with law, these Terms and the intended purpose of each function.

The Operator may refuse to create an Account, accept a username or provide a function where justified by law, security, protection of third-party rights or prevention of abuse.

9. Creator status and verification

Publishing Content and maintaining a Creator profile are not automatically available to every User. Creator status is granted by the Operator after the required verification and an assessment of whether the profile is consistent with the Platform's purpose.

To obtain Creator status, a User may be asked to:

- have an active Account and complete an application form;
- provide information about their profile, body of work, planned Content or Project;
- confirm that they are at least 18 years old and verify their identity using a document, photograph or verification recording - but only where that measure is actually used and described in the Privacy Policy;
- make declarations concerning rights to Content, business status and compliance of their activities with these Terms.

Until approved, the User does not have access to publishing tools. The Operator assesses the completeness of the application, the verification result, consistency of the profile with the Platform's purpose, security and previous infringements on the Platform. A refusal or withdrawal of Creator status may not be arbitrary; where required by law, the Operator provides reasons and information about the right to appeal.

A Creator must be at least 18 years old, verify their identity and provide accurate information about their activities, business status and rights to published Content where the Operator reasonably requires this. Verification may be repeated following a change of data, a report, a security threat or a legal obligation.

A Creator publishes Content free of charge. Creator status does not create an employment, agency, partnership, joint venture or paid cooperation relationship with the Operator and does not give rise to any claim for remuneration from the Operator or Users.

A Creator acting as a trader should disclose that status using the functions provided by the Platform and must not mislead Users about their identity, qualifications, affiliations, sponsorship or the stage of a Project.

10. Creator profiles, Projects and milestones

A Creator may present, free of charge, their profile, body of work, studio, co-creators, Project, planned stages, work in progress, updates and expected dates. The information must be true, current and understandable and must not suggest that the Platform has approved the quality, feasibility, funding or outcome of the Project.

A Project description is intended to provide information and build a community. It is not an offer for sale, a pre-sale, a fundraising campaign, an investment offer or a promise of any benefit to a Fan. A Creator may not use a Project to collect orders, pledges of funds, payment details, Wallet addresses or financial commitments.

Dates, objectives and milestones marked as planned may change. The Creator should update material information and correct errors without undue delay. The Operator does not guarantee completion of a Project.

11. Community and Fan participation

Where the relevant functions are available, a Fan may comment, answer surveys, provide feedback, participate in discussions and follow Project milestones free of charge. A Creator may moderate their own space within the limits of these Terms, while the Operator retains overriding moderation powers.

Fan participation does not create a cooperation or employment relationship, partnership, co-ownership, authority to act, a right to Project authorship, a right to remuneration, or a right to profit or revenue. Terms such as "community", "co-creation" or "participation in the Project journey" describe social engagement, not a proprietary right.

A Creator retains rights to their own comments and materials. A User does not automatically acquire the right to use a protected work, design or Creator idea beyond ordinarily displaying it on the Platform. Wider cooperation or a transfer of rights requires a separate arrangement between the persons concerned outside the Platform's transactional functions.

12. Conditions for publishing Content

A User may publish only Content for which:

- the User owns the rights or has all licences, consents and authorisations required for publication;
- publication does not infringe copyright, image rights, privacy, data protection rights, trade marks, trade secrets or other third-party rights;
- every identifiable person has consented to the recording and publication of their image, or another valid legal basis exists;
- the description, title, thumbnail, authorship designation and information about the Project stage are true and not misleading;
- sponsored Content, product placement or another commercial communication - where exceptionally permitted by the Operator - is clearly and correctly labelled;
- Content generated or materially altered by artificial intelligence is labelled where its nature may mislead the audience or where required by law;
- the Content complies with law, these Terms, the Community Guidelines and the intended purpose of the Platform.

At the Operator's reasonable request, the User must provide information or evidence concerning rights, consents and the accuracy of Content. Failure to provide a sufficient explanation may result in the material being withheld or its visibility restricted.

13. Prohibited Content and conduct

It is prohibited to publish, upload, promote or facilitate access to Content that:

- is illegal, fraudulent, defamatory, threatening, harassing, hateful or discriminatory, or incites violence or crime;
- depicts the sexual abuse of children, sexualises minors, is intended for the grooming of minors or facilitates harm to them;
- constitutes non-consensual intimate material, covertly recorded material, a sexual deepfake or another violation of intimacy;
- is pornographic, offers sexual services, or facilitates prostitution, escort services, sexual trafficking or meetings for such purposes;
- infringes copyright, image rights, privacy, personal data rights, trade marks, confidential information or other third-party rights;
- discloses another person's private or confidential data without a legal basis, including an address, precise location, identity document, financial data or login credentials;
- promotes suicide, self-harm, terrorism, human trafficking, illegal drugs, illegal weapons or other seriously dangerous conduct;
- facilitates blackmail, extortion, phishing, impersonation, distribution of malicious software, spam or artificial inflation of statistics;
- misleads others about authorship, identity, authenticity, the Operator's endorsement, sponsorship, funding or expected Project outcomes;
- breaches export restrictions, sanctions, or laws concerning anti-money laundering, crowdfunding, payment services, capital markets or crypto-assets;
- advertises prohibited goods or services, gambling, get-rich-quick schemes, unauthorised financial services or other activities prohibited by the Community Guidelines;
- disrupts the Platform, circumvents safeguards, uses bots without permission, or attempts to gain unauthorised access to data or systems.

Prohibition on selling, fundraising and circumvention of the free model

A profile, Project, Content, comments, messages, username, description, link, QR code, contact details, payment details or Wallet address must not be used to make sales, publish price lists, accept orders, raise funds, direct users to paid content, subscriptions, crowdfunding, tokens or NFTs, or circumvent the absence of such functions on the Platform. Ordinary links to public social media profiles may be permitted only in designated fields and must not lead directly or indirectly to a paid offer.

14. Rights to Content and licence granted to the Operator

A User retains the rights to their own User Content. Adding or publishing Content does not transfer ownership or economic copyright to the Operator, a Creator or other Users.

For the purpose of operating the selected function, the User grants the Operator a non-exclusive, royalty-free and worldwide licence to technically record, store, copy, format, compress, convert, secure, transmit and display the Content to its intended audience, and to create thumbnails. The licence covers only activities required to provide the function, perform moderation, maintain security, handle reports and protect rights.

The licence remains in effect while the Content is published or the function is used and afterwards only to the extent necessary to retain backups, comply with a legal obligation, preserve evidence or resolve a dispute. The Operator does not acquire the right to sell the Content, tokenise it, convert it into NFTs, use it to train external artificial intelligence models, or use a User's image in external advertising without a separate legal basis or consent.

A User may delete their own Content using the available function or ask the Operator to delete it. Deletion does not affect lawful activities carried out previously or data that must be retained temporarily.

Rules for using free Content

A User receives a limited, personal, non-commercial and revocable permission to view Content on the Platform. Free access does not mean that the Content is in the public domain or subject to an open licence.

Without the rights holder's permission or another legal basis, a User may not:

- download, make screen recordings of, copy or archive Content beyond ordinary use of the Platform;
- publish, upload, distribute, sell, provide access to, modify or create derivative works from Content;
- remove watermarks, rights information or technical safeguards;
- use Content to train models, perform facial recognition, create datasets or generate synthetic materials;
- use scrapers, bots or other automated methods to retrieve Content or data without the Operator's written consent.

Protection of the Platform and brand

The code, interface, databases, graphics, Younithub.com name, logo and Platform elements other than User Content belong to the Operator or its licensors. These Terms do not grant the right to use them beyond ordinary use of the Platform.

15. Intellectual property infringement reports

A person who claims that Content infringes their copyright, image rights, trade mark or other right may submit a report to younithub@gmail.com.

Where possible, a report should include:

- identification of the right or work to which the report relates;
- the exact URL, profile name or other information that makes it possible to locate the Content;
- an explanation of the infringement and documents confirming the reporting person's rights;
- the reporting person's contact details and, where they act through a representative, the basis of that representative's authority;
- a statement that the report is made in good faith and that the information provided is true.

The Operator may request additional information, temporarily restrict the Content, forward the report to the publishing User to the extent permitted by law, and restore the Content if the report proves unfounded.

16. Moderation, recommendations and commercial communications

The Operator may use human moderation and automated tools to detect infringements, protect Users, secure the Platform and comply with legal obligations. Automated tools may support a decision, but appeals are reviewed with human involvement where required by law or by the nature of the matter.

Depending on the nature, recurrence and severity of the issue, the Operator may label Content, restrict visibility or a function, disable recommendations, remove Content, warn the User, temporarily suspend the Account or terminate access.

The order in which Content is displayed may depend in particular on recency, profile completeness, Following, interactions, language, region, category, compliance with these Terms, security and manual editorial promotion. The Operator does not guarantee a Creator any particular reach, number of views or position in a ranking.

The Platform does not currently sell Users paid placement in rankings or paid promotion. Content from the Operator or affiliated entities, and any permitted commercial communications, will be labelled appropriately if they appear.

17. Reporting Illegal or Prohibited Content

Any person, including a person without an Account, may report Content or conduct using the "Report" function, where available, or by emailing younithub@gmail.com with the subject line "CONTENT REPORT".

Where possible, a report should include:

- the exact URL, profile name or other information that makes it possible to locate the Content;
- a clear explanation of why the Content is illegal or breaches these Terms;
- identification of the right or interest infringed and any evidence available to the reporting person;
- contact details, unless the law permits a report without them;
- a statement that the information has been provided in good faith and is accurate to the reporting person's knowledge.

Where a report is submitted electronically and contact details are provided, the Operator acknowledges receipt and provides information about its decision and available means of challenging that decision to the extent required by law. Reports concerning an immediate threat, child exploitation, human trafficking or non-consensual intimate material are treated as a priority.

18. Reasons for and appeals against moderation decisions

Where required by law, the Operator provides the affected User with a clear statement of reasons for a material decision. It may include the type of restriction, its scope and duration, the principal facts, the basis in these Terms or in law, information about the use of automation and available remedies. Information may be limited where required by law, security or protection of proceedings.

A User whose Content, Account or function has been restricted, and a reporting person who disagrees with the decision, may submit a free appeal within six months of the decision by emailing younithub@gmail.com. The appeal is reviewed promptly, without discrimination, with due diligence and not solely by automated means.

Where the Digital Services Act applies, the person concerned may also use a certified out-of-court dispute settlement body or lodge a complaint with the competent Digital Services Coordinator. This does not restrict the right to bring court proceedings.

After giving an appropriate warning, the Operator may restrict access for a person who frequently publishes manifestly Illegal Content or frequently submits manifestly unfounded reports or appeals, taking into account the number, severity, frequency, intent and effects of the misuse.

19. Data and transparency for Business Users

A Creator has access to data concerning their own profile, Projects and Content and to aggregated statistics where the relevant dashboard is available. The Platform does not generate sales, payment or payout data because it does not provide such functions.

The Operator may use aggregated data for security, analytics, development and compliance as described in the Privacy Policy. A Creator does not receive non-public data of other Creators, the Operator's trade secrets or Fan data that is not necessary for the operation of an available function.

After termination of an Account, a Creator may download available reports and their own Content for 30 days unless law, security, third-party rights or technical limitations justify refusal or a different period.

20. Suspension, restriction and closure of an Account

The Operator may proportionately restrict Content, a function, a profile or an Account in the event of a breach of these Terms, a security threat, failure to complete required verification, a risk of fraud, a decision of a competent authority or the need to protect other persons.

Where possible and lawful, the Operator gives advance notice of a restriction, states its basis and allows the issue to be remedied. Action may be immediate in the event of an urgent risk, a serious or repeated infringement, or a legal obligation.

A Business User receives a statement of reasons for a restriction on a durable medium. Termination of the entire service for a Business User is, as a rule, preceded by at least 30 days' notice stating the reasons, unless the law permits immediate action, in particular because of a legal obligation, urgent security concerns or repeated infringements.

A User may close their Account in the settings or by emailing younithub@gmail.com. Closure results in loss of access to the Account, profile, settings and functions assigned to the Account. User Content is deleted or anonymised in accordance with the selected function, the Privacy Policy, the rights of other persons and applicable law.

The Operator carries out an Account closure request without undue delay and, as a rule, within 30 days. Once the technical process has been completed, restoration of the Account or Content may be impossible. Certain data may be retained temporarily in backups or to comply with a legal obligation, handle a report, maintain security, or establish, pursue or defend claims.

21. Availability, changes to functions and security

The Platform is under development and may operate as a test version. The Operator does not guarantee uninterrupted availability of every function or item of Content. Interruptions may result from maintenance, updates, failures, security threats, actions of external providers or causes beyond the Operator's reasonable control.

The Operator may change or withdraw free functions for justified reasons such as technical development, security, prevention of abuse, a change in law, provider requirements or service improvements. A materially adverse change to an ongoing service is communicated with reasonable advance notice, subject to consumer rights.

To protect the Account, the User should in particular:

- use a strong and unique password and multi-factor authentication where available;
- keep the operating system, browser and device security software up to date;
- log out of public or shared devices and not save the password on them;
- remain alert to phishing and never give anyone a password, verification code or login link;
- promptly report any suspected Account compromise, data leak or other incident.

Under the current model, the Operator never asks for a private key, a Wallet recovery phrase, the signing of a blockchain transaction or a payment. Any message containing such a request should be treated as suspicious and reported to the Operator.

22. Privacy, cookies and external services

The separate Privacy Policy governs the processing of personal data, including Account data, technical data, communications, statistics and verification data. Cookies and similar technologies are described in the relevant notice and settings panel.

The Platform may use hosting, security, email, analytics, moderation or verification providers. The Privacy Policy describes the scope of their involvement and any data transfers. The current model does not require a payment service provider or crypto-asset service provider.

The Platform may contain ordinary links to public third-party websites. A link does not mean that the Operator endorses their content, security or activities. A link must not be used to circumvent the prohibition on selling and raising funds.

23. Service complaints and out-of-court dispute resolution

A complaint concerning operation of the Platform or Account, or performance of these Terms, may be sent to younithub@gmail.com. It should include contact details, a description of the issue, identification of the relevant Account or Content where applicable, and the requested resolution.

The Operator responds to a Consumer complaint within 30 days of receipt unless a mandatory provision specifies a different period. The absence of a price does not deprive a Consumer of rights concerning conformity of a digital service where the law applies because personal data is provided.

A Consumer may seek assistance from a municipal or district consumer ombudsman, the Trade Inspection Authority or a competent out-of-court dispute resolution body. Information is available from the Polish Office of Competition and Consumer Protection at: <https://polubowne.uokik.gov.pl/>.

Where the regulation governing platform-to-business relations applies to the relationship with a Business User and the Operator does not benefit from a statutory exemption, the Operator declares its willingness to engage with the following mediators: [MEDIATOR 1] and [MEDIATOR 2]. Mediation does not restrict the right to bring court proceedings.

24. Changes to the Terms

The Operator may amend these Terms for an important reason, including a change in law, the Operator's details, free functions, security requirements, moderation practices or the need to remove ambiguity.

The current version is published with its effective date. A User who has an Account is informed of a material change at least 14 days in advance unless an immediate change is required by law or urgent security considerations. The User may stop using the Platform and delete the Account before the change takes effect.

Where applicable platform-to-business rules require a longer period or a specific procedure, a Business User receives the change on a durable medium at least 15 days in advance, and a longer period applies where the change requires material technical or commercial adaptation. Statutory exceptions remain unaffected.

The Operator will inform Users of an intention to launch a Planned Feature as a paid, transactional, token-based or investment function at least 30 days before the proposed launch unless mandatory law requires a longer period. Such a function cannot be launched for a User solely by amending these Terms. It requires appropriate documents, full information about costs and risks and separate, express acceptance to the extent required by law. Failure to accept does not result in any fee.

25. Liability

The User is responsible for ensuring that their use of the Platform complies with law and these Terms. A Creator is responsible for the legality and accuracy of published Content and Project information and for holding all relevant rights and consents.

The Operator is not a party to any sale, funding, investment, payment or settlement agreement between a Fan and a Creator because the Platform does not provide such transactions. The Operator is not responsible for arrangements or payments made outside the Platform in breach of these Terms.

The Operator does not guarantee a Project's success, completion, funding or value, or the future launch of any Planned Feature. To the extent permitted by law, the Operator is not liable for User Content, unauthorised copying by third parties or the operation of external websites, but it performs its obligations after receiving sufficiently specific notice of an infringement.

Nothing in these Terms excludes or limits liability that cannot lawfully be excluded or any mandatory Consumer rights. Liability is determined under applicable law, taking into account the free-of-charge nature of the Platform.

26. Governing law and jurisdiction

These Terms and the relationship with the Operator are governed by Polish law. The choice of Polish law does not deprive a Consumer of protection arising from mandatory provisions of the country of their habitual residence.

Disputes are resolved by the Polish courts having jurisdiction under applicable law. For a Consumer, the court having jurisdiction is determined in accordance with rules that cannot be varied by contract.

27. Final provisions

If a provision is held invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions remain in force, and the invalid provision applies only to the extent permitted by law and as close as possible to its lawful purpose.

A failure by the Operator to exercise a right immediately does not constitute a waiver of that right. Headings are included for readability.

A User may not transfer the Account or the contract with the Operator without the Operator's consent. The Operator may transfer rights or obligations in connection with a reorganisation, merger or sale of the business, subject to the required information being provided and Users' rights being preserved.

The Polish-language version is the controlling version. A translation does not restrict protection arising from mandatory law.

These Terms apply only to the Platform's current, entirely free-of-charge stage. They do not replace the Privacy Policy, Community Guidelines or separate publishing rules for Creators. They do not cover future paid, transactional, token-based, blockchain, crowdfunding or investment functions that are not currently available.

End of the Terms | version 1.1 | 17 July 2026
